

The reality of assisted dying in Canada

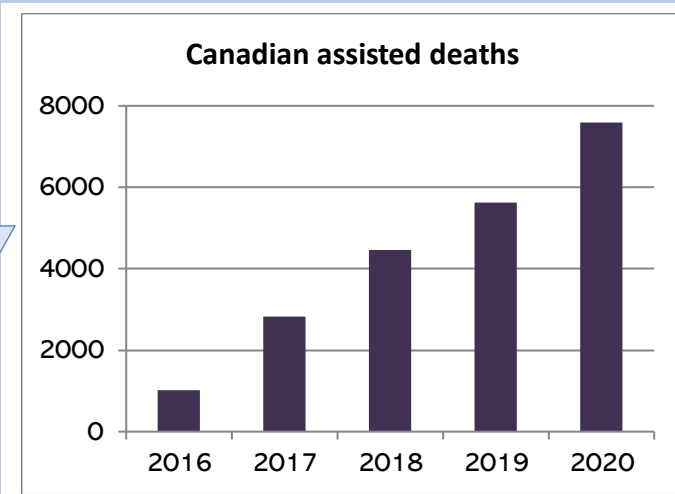

Assisted suicide and euthanasia (MAiD) have been legal since 2016. Most legislatures see numbers rise slowly.

Canada has seen the fastest growth in assisted dying of any legislature in the world

Assisted deaths have risen nearly 8-fold in 5 years¹

Increased 36% in the 1 year alone²

Canada is 22nd in end-of-life care rankings (down 11 places since 2015)^{3, 4}

85% of Canadians do not have access to publicly funded palliative care and many areas have none.^{6, 7}
40% of AD patients had no PC involvement before death.⁸
